HALF A KING
ABBRECHMIE, Joe “Tears, the king’s sacred tears, are not destined for the Black Church—instead, they are used to heal the sick, to bring the dead back to life, to bind the world in a single dream. But it seems that the king is gone, and the world is falling apart.”

THE DIVINERS
BRAT, Lioha

Erié O’Neill has been exiled from her beloved old hometown and shipped off to the farthest corners of New York City. The only catch is Erié must live with her Uncle Will, curator of the Museum of American Folklore, Superstition, and the Occult. When a series of old friends and former lovers comes to live in Erié’s uncle’s right in the thick of the investigation. (The title story and magnificently imagined details of character, dialogue and setting take hold and don’t let go. Not to be missed.”—Pulitzer Prize
